

This week, who we LOVE, want TO TWEET, and, yes, even ACTUALLY BE

CHART OF LUST

1 UP
George Clooney

The world's number one MAG (man ageing gracefully), according to a newly released top 10 (which is basically a wannabe/specialist Chart of Lust, but we forgive it).

2 NEW IN
Mr Whistles menswear

While acknowledging it's a shame most men won't look like this when wearing Whistles' new range, we like that he's giving them all something to aim towards.

3 NEW IN
Liz Taylor

Who once sent Rich a letter that opened, 'I wish I could tell of my... pure animal pleasure of you,' and ended, 'I lust thee,' which is how CoL will now end all missives.

4 NEW IN
Daley Blind

CoL's interest in football's transfer window was negligible, until Manchester United signed this Dutchman. At which point... Well. You know.

5 NEW IN
All the iCloud hackers

Who are not having a good week. Special kudos to Kirtsen Dunst for her 'pizza st' emoji response.

6 NEW IN
James Cracknell

Olympian, wannabe Tory MP; reputed competition for Boris Johnson. CoL doesn't appreciate his political stance, does admire his head.

7 NEW IN
@the bodycoach

Rising star of Instagram. He cooks, he sings, sometimes he works out. Which is fun. Particularly because he is the definition of beardie hotness.

8 NEW IN
Nikki Phillips

A model, of whom we'd never heard until today, but we like what she's doing with netting-effect clothing. More of this kind of thing.

9 UP
Mel B

CoL met her once, and she terrified us (as is her wont), but we did enjoy the 'chopped liver' moment on ep one of the new X Factor.

10 NON-MOVER
Karen Gillan

For demonstrating stoicism in the face of having all her excellent hair shaved off for her Guardians Of The Galaxy role, in a newly available video clip.
